"WHEREAS, agriculture remains the primary source of livelihood and economic activity for the people of the Municipality of Bulalacao in the Province of Oriental Mindoro, with rice farming being a crucial sector;

"WHEREAS, local farmers in the municipality depend on the sale of their palay to secure a fair return on their labor and investment, which directly impacts their families' well-being and the local economy;

"WHEREAS, the National Food Authority (NFA) has the mandate to ensure food security and stabilize rice prices by, among other things, procuring palay from local farmers at a government-mandated support price;

"WHEREAS, recently, the Municipality of Bulalacao had been massively affected by both Typhoon Nando and Opong which lead to the plunging of farm-gate prices of palay in the market, leaving local farmers vulnerable to exploitation by private traders;
